CINCINNATI, August 29.—The city is full of sporting men, attracted hither from all directions to see the Sullivanfrom all directions to see the SullivanMcCaffrey glove contest this afternoon, at the grounds of Chester Park Athletic Club, Ninth Street, in the vicinity of the saloons, where seats were sold, has been crowded with strangers and the appearance of a carriage with strange occupants sufficed to fill the street men and boys, hoping to see one of the boxers.
The desire to see Sullivan was gratified, for he visited the city to complete his bond and afterward drove to several places in the city, everywhere drawling great crowds. Sullivan's bond merely binds him to not en rage as principal in a prize fight in Ohio, for one year. It is understood that no further effort will be made to interfere with the affair and that if anything is done, it will be by indictment after the event, McCaffrey did not core to the city as reported last night, to give a bond, but hid to avoid streets. He is attending strictly to his training and has wasted no time. He took a two miles walk this morning and said he felt like a winner.
The contest is under the Marquis of Queensberry rules, six rounds or to a finish. The general feeting is that Sullivan must win, but McCaffrey is credited with being able to cause much trouble. McCaffrey glove contest this afternoon,
